

Doctor of Medicine Program (MD) | Matriculants on or after September 2026

The Cost of Attendance (COA) includes direct charges billed by SUSOM and estimated indirect expenses for the applicable enrollment period. It is used for financial aid purposes and does not reflect the amount a student will owe the University.

This COA is based on SUSOM's tuition and fee structure and the standard full-time curriculum for the applicable phase of the MD program. Students enrolled outside the standard full-time curriculum may have their COA adjusted based on actual enrollment, assessed tuition and fees, program phase, and applicable federal student-aid eligibility rules. Actual expenses may vary.

What is included in the COA?

The COA is made up of two types of costs: direct and indirect.

- Direct costs are charges billed directly by SUSOM. These include tuition, administrative fees, and applicable visa fees. During Clinical Medicine, direct costs also include malpractice insurance and the applicable graduation fee.

- Indirect costs are estimated expenses a student may incur while enrolled that are not billed directly by SUSOM. These include books and supplies, food and housing, utilities, phone and internet, transportation, USMLE exam fees, personal expenses, and applicable Federal Direct Loan fees.
